

From the Cincinnati Gazette.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Our Murfreesboro dispatches this morning, furnish the gratifying intelligence of the capture of Jackson, Miss., by General Grant. The news comes through rebel sources, being a telegram from Mobile, dated the 4th instant published in a Chattanooga paper. The dispatch states that the rebels fought all day, but were unable to save the city. This gives General Grant the command of Vicksburg, and seem to render the fall of the latter only a question of a few days' time. If the rebels could not defend Jackson, we do not see how they can hold Vicksburg, now that their communications have been cut off. It is likely, however, that a severe battle would be fought between Jackson and Vicksburg. Altogether, the news from the Southwest is cheering.

The Richmond Enquirer, which, it will be remembered, is the official organ of Jeff. Davis, has a desponding article on the probable character of the summer campaign. It says our troops threaten the South on every side. There is great activity in the Southwest, while there are indications of a renewal of the attack on Charleston. Hooker's army still menaces the line of the Rappahannock, and our troops are troublesome in North Carolina. In short incessant watchfulness is required by the South in regard to operations in every quarter. A blow may be struck in any one of many places.

The news from New Orleans, which we publish in our dispatches, is indeed cheering. Alexandria, the rebel stronghold on the Red river, has been captured by Admiral Porter's fleet, and a strong rebel force commanding its defenses has been entirely destroyed. Port Hudson was bombarded by our fleet a few days since, and it is reported that the place has been evacuated by the enemy. Col. Grierson's expedition, from which we have had very favorable accounts from time to time, had reached Baton Rouge after a series of most brilliant successes. Every railroad in Mississippi was cut by them, several important bridges destroyed, depots burned, and a whole train of cars laden with rebel stores committed to the flames. Among the articles on board were 3,000 shells destined for the Vicksburg batteries, which exploded with a fearful crash. The amount of damage inflicted by the raid is almost incalculable. The men provided themselves with fresh horses on the march, and rode safely into Baton Rouge, accompanied by three hundred negroes on horseback, most of whom also rode horses.

The Nashville Press of Friday says the departures South were more numerous Thursday than the day before. Quite a crowd had good-bye to Nashville about 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. They made their exit by the Charlotte pike, escorted thither by Captain Connor of the 8th Kansas: Mr. J. H. McKee, Mrs. Brayan, Wm. Thomas, Mrs. Barnes, Henry Hill, Mrs. Thomas, Wm. H. Couch, Mrs. Malone, F. Porterfield, Mrs. E. Carroll and three children, J. Wood, wife and three children, Mrs. E. Elliott and child, Warren Jackson, Miss A. J. Roberts, W. C. Jackson, Miss M. Elliott and two sisters, Q. B. Wyatt, W. C. Hunt, Miss M. Alexander, George R. Cotton and wife, Daniel Glase, wife and two children, and Mrs. M. Porterfield.

Some of the New York Copperhead Democrats held a meeting at the State House, at Albany, on Saturday, to denounce the arrest of Vallandigham. Urastus Corning presided, and Gov. Seymour sent in a letter strongly condemning the arrest of the Ohio traitor. The meeting aroused much excitement and indignation, especially among the returned soldiers, who silenced some of the speakers and broke up the chairs on the stage. Order was at last, with much difficulty, restored.

On the night of the 12th fifty-five men of the First West Tennessee Cavalry (Union) under command of Col. W. K. Breckinridge, surprised a camp of twice their number of rebels at Linden, Tenn., capturing a Lieutenant-Colonel, a Captain, Surgeon, thirty soldiers and ten conscripts, fifty horses, and a variety of property. Three of the rebels were killed, but not a man was lost on the side of the successful assailants. The Court House, which was filled with rebel supplies, was burned.

All the iron-clads which participated in the late fight at Charleston—the Keokuk of course excepted—have been thoroughly repaired.

Late advices from Grafton, Va., state that the rebel raid in West Virginia may now be considered over, as Gen. Kelley has taken such measures as will effectually deter the rebels from attacking any important point.

BAILEY & CHERINGTON.

The editor of the New Bedford Standard says that he lately discovered in an old drawer which had not been opened for years, a remarkable silver coin, which had on one side a head with the word "Liberty," surrounded by thirteen stars, and the date 1829. On the opposite side was an eagle with the motto "E Pluribus Unum," the words "United States of America," and the figures "10c."

GERMAN DICK.—A boy at school in the West, when called to recite his lesson in history was asked, "What is the German Dictum?" "Sour-kroot, schnapps and lager-beer," was the reply.

The notorious John Mitchell, now at Richmond, is talked of for a Brigadier Generalship in the rebel army. When John edited a paper in Ireland, he advised the Irish to fight against the British, and if the latter should invade the Irish cities, to fight them with vitriol. It will certainly be enough to try the nerves of our brave fellows severely when they behold the Mitchell brigade bearing down upon them, each man grasping two bottles of vitriol, one in his right hand and the other in his left, while the long and terrible necks of half a dozen more are protruding from his coat and breeches pockets, and caissons loaded with carboys are seen massed in reserve. What can the bayonet do against vitriol? Should not the civilized world, for common humanity's sake, interpose to prevent such horrid warfare.—Low Jour.

In the fight of Col. Paxton's 2d Va. Cavalry, at Lewisburg, on Sunday, 4th inst., our boys lost 4 killed, 13 wounded, and Geo. Jenvey of this city, was taken prisoner. Of the loss inflicted upon the rebels we are not advised, except that Col. Paxton brought into Camp Platt 13 prisoners. That the Colonel did his whole duty on this expedition cannot be doubted, as he is well known to be a most energetic, pushing and gallant officer.—Marionette Register.

REBEL RAID ON CAVALRY UPON BURNING SPRINGS—WELLS, BOATS, AND TANKS BURNED.

On the 7th inst. about 500 rebel cavalry made their appearance at Burning Springs, Wirt county, and burned all the wells and tanks that would take fire. They also burned all the boats there, except one belonging to H. A. Paxton, used as a boarding boat, and two store boats—one belonging to John Cornell, the other to Moss, of Marietta Ohio. They took all the goods on all the boats. The night before reaching Burning Springs they camped at the head of the run. They remained one day and part of the next night. Part of them went to Elizabeth. No dwellings were burned at the Springs.—Parkersburg Gazette.

We learn that a good-looking and gallant Captain in the Federal army will, in a short time, unite his fortunes with Miss Frank Martin, the female soldier at Barracks No. 1. She will undoubtedly make a good companion in arms for the Captain.—Low Jour.

IMPORTANT TO RETURNED REBELS.—By order of Gen. Burnside all persons, deserters, or others, coming from the lines of the rebel army, are required to report themselves at once to the nearest commanding officer. Persons of this character, who are found within the lines of the United States Army, who have not made the above report, will be arrested as spies.

DIED.

At his residence, near Elms Furnace, Lawrence county, Ohio, April 30th, 1863, Dr. J. P. GATES, aged 62 years and 15 days.

Like many others, Dr. Gates neglected the work of the salvation of his soul until death. But, during his illness he was brought to see and feel the necessity of a preparation of heart to meet God in peace. On Tuesday previous to his death, he sent for the writer of this notice, and requested to have his name entered on the Church Record, and gave evidence of genuine penitence. A few hours previous to his death, he told his companion that he had experienced a change of heart. At 5 o'clock P. M. of the above date, just at the close of the singing of a beautiful and impressive hymn, by Rev. D. Kennedy, to which he fully assented, and without a struggle, he calmly fell asleep. He has left an aged companion and several children, one of whom is in the United States service, to mourn his loss.—The Lord sustain them. S. MIDDLETON. Irwin Register.

HOVER'S PHOTOGRAPH GALLERY.

OVER N. P. FENNER'S STORE, Public Square, Gallipolis, OHIO.

My patrons and friends, give an ear to my call. I have just received a new and complete stock of photographic apparatus, and am prepared to take and develop photographs of every description. My prices are low, and my work is done with the utmost care and accuracy. I have a large and well-lighted gallery, and am prepared to receive my patrons at all times. I have a large and well-stocked stock of photographic materials, and am prepared to supply my patrons with everything they may require. I have a large and well-stocked stock of photographic materials, and am prepared to supply my patrons with everything they may require. I have a large and well-stocked stock of photographic materials, and am prepared to supply my patrons with everything they may require.

Which perhaps you will think neither witty nor terse; But on this occasion, as I wish you to know it, I have humbly ventured my strength at a poet; Not in measure "Byronic" but more "Hudibrastic" Which if short of a "feet" will stretch like "turn" "lactic" Should the want of a word make the verse to stand still, Why make the line longer or shorter at will, Which I think you will own is convenient quite, And of course makes the task more agreeable and light— Now after this prelude, your attention to win, I now make my best bow to you all, and begin: Give a call at my room, and while there take a seat.

Over N. P. Fenner's store, on Second street, Six doors from the corner—up two flights of stairs.

They'll welcome you all, without "putting on airs." Take a walk through the streets, and the city all around, And my pictures I'm sure can't be beaten in town.

To begin with the cherub before he can walk, Or the prattle of childhood just learning to talk; I can take the resemblance of the "sweet little dear," From the babe of six months, to the child of ten years, Just as "natural as life," with each infantine grace; Neither dress, limb or feature, the least out of place.

Now, to you, lovely woman, man's first and best friend, My pictures of you, I at once recommend. If not good, I'd not praise them, for, lo! for a puff, But each likeness will speak "trumpet tongue" for itself; Those not so good-looking, I improve if they will, And the handsome—I make them look handsomer still.

If you want a bold picture, why give me a call— Not a likeness which you a resemblance may trace— But a picture full of artistic beauty, and grace; Take a look at my pictures, and I think you will find, Utility, beauty, and business combined, Superior to many, inferior to none, I have some very cheap, and some a number none;

All tastes can be suited, but the simple and scholar, A fine picture and case I put up for a dollar; My motto's progressive, and I'll stand to the test, "As cheap as the cheapest, and as good as the best;" I can take single pictures, or groups also, together.

If the sky should look low'ring, or cloudy the weather, On Second street, over Fenner's store, is the spot— On the Public Square—let it not be forgot, Take a look, and you'll find what I've told you is true.

Hover thus make his first bow to you all— now adieu! April 30, 1863.—3m
